He is also the founder of DoSomethingWorld.org, which unites churches, governments and organizations across the globe to be a catalyst for change in their own communities. Ask any parent and they will tell you that the world is a dangerous place and seemingly getting more so.

Two things have occurred as a result. One, there are more children at risk.

But secondly, it has created a new breed of hyper-protective parents willing to do anything to stand between their children and all that threatens them.

Are the kids physically safer because of it? Perhaps. Are they emotionally and spiritually safer?

That's another matter entirely.

Read Pastor Dru's devotional that can help set your child up for a life of victory.
